

2.
of pure energy, called photons or quanta. These have definite energy and travel in the direction of propagation of radiation beam with the velocity equal to that of light. The energy of photon is proportional to the frequency of radiation and is given by the relationship

$$E = h\nu$$

where E is the energy of photons. ν is the freq. of EMR & h is called Planck's constant.